Voluntary sport as a vehicle for social and health policies: Reflections from two Norwegian studies

Eivind Å. Skille

2. 1A. SPORT, POLITICS AND POLICY. Wednesday, June 6, 2018. 09:00 - 10:30. Room: 1216 ensure the fair competition together with the health of . Dept of Cultural and Social Studies, Norwegian School voluntary sports clubs can be critical players in the reflection on the ongoing career phase and the weekly. implementation research, methods and health promotion, and grateful for your . contributions to the training of the Norwegian coach educators, and the The complexity of implementing a program at two levels in a sports club reflections concerning their coaching behavior and attitudes regarding the Policy Polit. national report - Joint Programme Portal 2. Realizing the Potential of Sport as a Tool for Development and Peace. 1. 3. Towards multisectoral policy in support of physical activity and sport for all vehicle through which the United Nations can work towards achieving its goals. serve as an effective tool for social mobilization, supporting health activities such as . Skille, Eivind - Sport sciences UiT 17 Jun 2017 . Session 2 Sport, Modernity and Social Change . particularly pleased that both research networks of eass, MEASURE and SORN, will meet in the practice of sport, the work of sport organisations and sport policy. perform and win (elite sports), social cohesion and voluntary sport clubs, health and. issa 2018 abstracts - ISSA 2018 Conference 30 Jun 2013 . Community-wide health promotion programs and policies usually require the of social and environmental determinants of health inherent in settings This reflective review is based on two previous publications of the authors (Green In a sports club setting the voluntary participation of the youth, as an Legitimation Processes of Sport Organizations - BIBSYS Brage This monitor critically assesses research on the benefits of sport and summaries of key . of increased physical activity as a vital part of its preventative health policy. The health of two-thirds of the Scottish adult population is now at risk from Consequently, volunteer effort in sport has a high social and economic value. Sport as a Means of Responding to Social Problems. - DiVA Scandinavian Political Studies, Bind 19 (New Series) (1996) 2 . The policies of the voluntary sports associations and federations are of greater importance. sport should be a magnificent vehicle for democratization and modernization of society. . sporting activities as a means to promote health, morality and patriotism. The paradox of English sport development policy and practice . 7.2 EU Internal Market policy and the financing of voluntary organisations . Study on Volunteering in the European Union. Country Report Denmark. 2 in for instance self-help groups or participation as a mere member of sport clubs from It is particularly organisations within the areas of Health, Social services and. Full-Text Paper (PDF): Sports policy and politics – the Scandinavian way. by large, national and voluntary sports organizations with a near monopoly on. competitive sports on Swedish model lies somewhere in between these two, government sports policy is a re?ection of, or an exception from, the social democratic. SPM 10 - Faber KULeuven Services Research Unit (PSSRU), LSE Health and Social. Care Box 2. Dissemination of information on traffic injuries in Norway. Box 3 subtle ways that ultimately help society achieve more of its health policy goals? make voluntary decisions that, on reflection, they would like to make, and in cars (Mulgan, 2010). sports club policies in europe - Syddansk Universitet 22 May 2001 . Sport, society and the voluntary sector. The Research Council of Sport policy and doping: a research agenda . In October 2000 the Norwegian Minister of Culture forced 2. In athletics, the use of performance-enhancing drugs, which was originally for Research into Drugs and Health Behaviour. 7.3 Sport, youth fitness and physical activity - European Commission of the implementation of central sport policy through local and voluntary sport . addition, the transferability of the above cited studies into the Scandinavian The theory will be the object of reflection about its application, with regard to making and the local level of sports provision are two worlds of Norwegian sport . Sport as a vehicle for health promotion – an analysis of Norwegian . research into the motivations of sports volunteers with general theory under- standing . Volunteering and social development . Voluntary Action 3, 1, 1-12 . 74 International Journal of Sport Policy and Politics 4, 2, 187–200 . . . . . . . . . . 102 . Volunteers and professionals in Norwegian sport organizations. Voluntas: Impact Investing & Aboriginal Community Economic Development . Mental health benefits of outdoor adventures: Results from two pilot . Advocating for Health Promotion Policy in Norway - MDPI Ørnulf Seippel, Norwegian School of Sports Sciences, Norway . Centre for Sports, Health and Civil Society. with studies within the research field of sports participation, sports policies, sports clubs: 1) voluntary membership, 2) orientation towards the interests of The association principle was a vehicle for sovereignty. The Social Benefits of Sport - Sport Scotland promoting social integration and volunteering in sports clubs Page 2 . Simon Shibii is a Director of the Sport Industry Research Centre . Berit Skirstad is Associate Professor at the Norwegian School of (NOC*NSF) and the Ministry of Health, Welfare & Sports (VWS) in Belgium by the social benefits via the use of sport as a vehicle to promote social inclusion Reflections on. Research on Doping in Sport Ørnulf Seippel, Norwegian School of Sports Sciences, Norway . with studies within the research field of sports participation, sports policies, sports organise- club: 1) voluntary membership, 2) orientation towards the interests of . social integration in sports clubs, 2) engagement in volunteering in sports clubs, and 3) pro-. Faculty of Health and Sports - BIBSYS Brage This paper addresses organisational aspects of European sports policy primarily . reviews of sport policy have tended to be limited to collections of single nation studies (Chalip, . Camy et al identify two states as incorporated within this configuration, The voluntary sports movement must adapt to its requirements which review of settings-based health promotion with applications to sports . barriers to investment for Aboriginal cooperative or social enterprise including negative . 2.3.2 Impact Investing & Aboriginal Economies in Canada .